SUMMARY OFFENCE CONVICTION APPEAL GUIDE

This guide is only intended to provide legal information. While this guide is intended to provide correct information, it is not the law, and no judge of the Court is bound by any statement contained in this guide.

This guide is not a substitute for professional legal advice, including whether you should or should not proceed with your appeal, whether there is law in support of your appeal, and whether other legal options or strategies are available to you.

SUMMARY OFFENCE CONVICTION APPEAL

This Guide provides legal information in response to the following questions:

A. Where can I find information on the law or processes that are relevant to my appeal or discussed in this guide?

B. What is a summary offence?

C. I did not appear in Court, and the Court convicted me in my absence. May I appeal that conviction?

D. What is the time limit for filing an appeal of a summary offence conviction to the Court of King's Bench?

E. What are the steps for appealing a summary offence conviction?

F. What happens if I file a Notice of Appeal and fail to obtain a transcript?

G. Is enforcement of the penalty automatically stayed when I file my appeal and until a decision on the appeal is heard?

H. What if I change my mind after I have filed a Notice of Appeal and decide that I don't want to appeal anymore?

A. Where can I find information on the law or processes that are relevant to my appeal or discussed in this guide?

Obtaining professional legal advice is always recommended. There are also a number of free on-line sources that provide legal information to assist you.

All provincial legislation and regulations including The Summary Offences Procedures Act, 1990 (SOPA) can be found on the Publication Saskatchewan's website at this page: https://publications.saskatchewan.ca/#/freelaw/acts

The Canadian Legal Information Institute (CANLII) website publishes legislation and court decisions from throughout Canada, including Criminal Code of Canada matters. Court decisions that address similar issues in similar circumstances are helpful in understanding the application of the law in a particular area. CANLII's webpage address is: https://www.canlii.org/

The Court of King's Bench has also created Rules of Court that set out the process for various court proceedings, and a practice directive which sets out the proper forms and process to follow for Summary Conviction Appeals. Links to the Rules of Court and Practice Directives can be found on the Courts' website at: https://sasklawcourts.ca/kings-bench/rules-practice-directives/

Practice Directive CRIM-PD 14 which addresses Summary Conviction Appeals, can be found here: https://sasklawcourts.ca/wp-content/uploads/2025/06/KB-CRIM-PD-14.pdf

B. What is a summary conviction offence?

There are three types of criminal offences. The section of the Criminal Code or provincial legislation that creates the offence will state what type of offence it is. The three types of offences are indictable, summary, and hybrid.

Indictable offences are considered the most serious type of offence. They are tried in the Court of King's Bench and carry a greater penalty than summary conviction offences. You cannot appeal an Indictable offence to the Court of King's Bench.

Summary offences are considered less serious than indictable offences and include offences listed under the Criminal Code of Canada as well as offences listed under provincial legislation and municipal bylaws. These offences are tried in the Provincial Court. Convictions for a summary conviction offence may also occur if the defendant does not respond to an offence ticket or summons and fails to appear in Provincial Court (including Traffic Court and Bylaw Court) on the date the offence is set to be spoken to or tried.

Hybrid offences are ones that the Crown can choose to prosecute either as an indictable offence or a summary conviction offence. If the Hybrid offence is prosecuted by indictment you cannot appeal to the Court of King's Bench, but if the offence is prosecuted by summary conviction, you can use this process.

C. I did not appear in Court and the Court convicted me in my absence. What options do I have?

Where a defendant fails to respond to an offence notice ticket or fails to attend court when summoned or scheduled to do so, then a default conviction may be entered against them. Pursuant to Section 23 of the Summary Offence Procedures Act, 1990 (SOPA), the defendant may apply to the Provincial Court within 15 days after the conviction first came to the attention of the defendant, to request a hearing to set aside the default conviction and allow the matter to be tried.

You may also file an appeal with the Court of King's Bench, but you should be aware of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal's decision in R v Kimery, 2010 SKCA 153 (CanLII) that limits the jurisdiction of the Court of King's Bench to hear appeals of default judgments, where Section 23 of SOPA applies.

D. What is the time limit for filing an appeal of a summary offence conviction to the Court of King's Bench?

Pursuant to Criminal Practice Directive #14, you must file your Notice of Appeal in FORM 1 (attached below at pages 8-9) with the Local Registrar within 30 days[1] after the pronouncement of the order under appeal, or within 30 days after the imposition of any sentence imposed, whichever is later.

Once your application is served and filed, the Local Registrar will inform you and the Crown when the application will be heard in Court.

If you are outside of the 30-day appeal period, you may apply to the Court of King's Bench to extend the time to appeal.

[1] In counting 30 days, the count commences on the day after the date of judgment being appealed is dated and ends at 4:00 p.m. on the 30th day. In other words, the first day is excluded and the last day is included in the count. Weekends and holidays are included within the 30-day count. However, if the 30th day falls on a Sunday or another day when the Local Registrar's office is closed, the time to file the appeal is extended to the next day when the Local Registrar's office is open.

E. What are the steps for appealing a summary offence conviction?

STEP 1- Complete the Notice of Appeal FORM 1 (attached below at pages 8-9 of this guide). You are the "Appellant". Don't forget to sign and date the form.

STEP 2 - File the completed FORM 1 with the Local Registrar at the nearest King's Bench Court House to where the conviction in Provincial Court was made. A list of all court locations can be found here: https://sasklawcourts.ca/kings-bench/about-the-court/contact-the-court/. The Local Registrar will serve your Notice of Appeal on the Crown (the "Respondent") for you. If your contact information provided in FORM 1 changes at any time, you will need to let the Local Registrar's Office know. Please make sure to keep a copy of FORM 1 for your records.

STEP 3 - Order a transcript of the proceedings in the summary conviction court from Transcript Services as soon as possible and no later than 14 days after filing your Notice of Appeal. The order form is attached below from pages 10 to 12. Ensure that a copy of your Notice of Appeal is attached. Transcript Services will provide you with email confirmation once your deposit is paid. Transcript Services will not commence the transcript until your deposit is paid. If your appeal is only of the sentence imposed, then only a transcript of the sentencing proceedings is required. To avoid additional expense, inform Transcript Services that only a transcript of the sentencing proceedings is required.

You are responsible for the cost of typing the transcript of the proceedings that occurred in the summary conviction court. After you deliver the Transcript Order Form, Transcript Services will advise you of the estimated cost of typing the transcript. You must deposit this amount with Transcript Services prior to the transcript being prepared. For appeal purposes the cost of transcription is estimated at $3.00 per page. One hour of court time is approximately 50 pages of transcript. Fee Waiver Certificates do not apply to transcript fees.

STEP 4 - Within 14 days of filing your appeal, provide proof to the Local Registrar that you have ordered a transcript of the proceedings. You may file the confirmation email that is sent to you by Transcript Services to the Local Registrar as proof. If the appellant fails to file proof that a transcript has been ordered the Respondent may apply to the Court to dismiss the appeal.

STEP 5 – File a copy of your transcript with the Court and serve a copy of the transcript on the Crown within 10 days after you receive the transcript from Transcript Services.

The best way to serve the Crown is by delivering a copy of the transcript to their office[2] personally. Alternatively, you can call their office to ask if they will accept service by other means (for example, by email or fax). A list of the Prosecution Regional Offices and their location can be found on the Saskatchewan Government website at the following webpage address https://www.saskatchewan.ca/government/directory?ou=ef856174-c1b5-4503-adb2-080a64884fde

You will have to prove that you have served a copy of the transcript on the Crown. As proof of service, you may ask the Crown to sign an ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF SERVICE (attached at page 13-14 of this guide).

STEP 6 - File Proof of Service of the Transcript on Crown. Once proof of service is filed the Local Registrar will notify you and the Crown of when the appeal is scheduled to be heard. You will be notified at the address for service you provided in your Notice of Appeal. If you move, it is your responsibility to notify the Local Registrar's office of your new address.

STEP 7 - Complete an Appellant's Memorandum of Argument in FORM 4 (attached below at pages 15-16) You must serve and file the Appellant's Memorandum of Argument at least 30 days prior to the date set for your hearing of the appeal.

See Step 5 for how you may serve your Memorandum of Argument on the Crown and the type of Acknowledgment of Service form you must file with the Court.

STEP 8 - The Crown must serve and file the Respondent's Memorandum of Argument at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing of the appeal. The Crown will have to serve you with the Memorandum of Argument and will have to prove that they have done so.

STEP 9 - You or your lawyer must appear in Court at the date, time and place provided to you by the Local Registrar for your appeal hearing. At this time, you or your lawyer will explain to the judge why you believe that the decision of the summary conviction court was legally incorrect and should be overturned or changed. Because you will have already included this information in your Notice of Appeal and your Appellant's Memorandum of Argument, you should bring copies of those documents with you so you can refer to them. If you wish, you may choose to simply rely upon your Notice of Appeal and Appellant's Memorandum of Argument instead of making an oral presentation to the Appeal Court – you should indicate that this is how you wish to proceed in your Notice of Appeal.

The Judge may make a decision regarding your appeal on the day of hearing once arguments are concluded, or, the Judge might reserve their decision. When a decision is reserved, the Local Registrar will notify you and the Crown when the decision is rendered and send you a copy of the decision to the address you set out in your Notice of Appeal. If you move, it is your responsibility to notify the Local Registrar's office of your new address.

F. What happens if I file a Notice of Appeal and then fail to obtain a transcript?

You must pursue your appeal diligently. If you don't, either the Prosecutor or the Local Registrar can apply to the Court to dismiss your appeal.

G. Is enforcement of the penalty automatically stayed or suspended when I file my appeal and until a decision on the appeal is heard?

No. The sentence imposed on conviction is not stayed or suspended when an appeal is filed. However, pursuant to Criminal Practice Directive #14, you may apply to the Court for an order to stay the sentence or penalty by serving on the Crown and filing with the Local Registrar, a completed Notice of Application in FORM 9 and an affidavit (attached below at pages 17-19) that sets out the facts that support the application.

H. What if I change my mind after I have filed a Notice of Appeal and decide that I don't want to appeal anymore?

You can abandon your appeal by filing a Notice of Abandonment with the Local Registrar. This can be done with FORM 8, which you can obtain from the Court's website here: https://sasklawcourts.ca/kings-bench/rules-practice-directives/

▪The transcript is a verbatim record of the proceedings held in Court. Every matter that is heard in court is not transcribed. We transcribe only those matters which are requested in writing and with permission of the courts

▪Transcript Services coordinates the preparation of transcripts of court proceedings.

▪If the proceeding has not been previously transcribed, the completed form will be forwarded to the relevant court office for consideration. If the Court authorizes that the transcript can be prepared, the court office forwards the audio recording and necessary materials to Transcript Services.

▪Transcript Services will estimate the length and cost of the transcript, which is dependent on the length of the audio recording forwarded by the court office. The party submitting the request must deposit funds sufficiently to cover the cost of transcription. The matter will not be transcribed until a deposit is received. Note: you may not be required to submit a deposit if the request is made through your lawyer.

▪The cost to transcribe a court proceeding is set out in the Kings Bench Regulations. The cost of transcript preparation is $4.00 per page (6 to 8 week turn around). Transcripts may be requested to be expedited at a cost of $8.50 per page (10-19 business days) or $9.75 per page (5-9 business days). All costs are subject to GST. The time to prepare a transcript begins from the time our service provider receives the audio, not from when the order form is submitted. Requests for expedited transcripts are at the discretion of Transcript Services, depending on the length of the court proceeding.

▪If a proceeding has been previously transcribed, the requester will be provided a copy of the completed transcript at a cost of $0.50 per page plus GST.

▪Legal Aid or Court Appointed Counsel must provide supporting documentation with each transcript request to Transcript Services, otherwise, the fees will fall on the requester.

▪You are not bound by that request for deposit. Should you determine that you no longer require the transcript, please contact our office as soon as possible so we may close our file. It is your responsibility to submit your deposit in a timely manner.

▪If your matter is for an appeal (dependent on appeal type), as the appellant you may be responsible for the cost of having the transcript prepared; for summary convictions: the original transcript is to filed with the Appellant Court and each of two copies (one for the respondent / one for the appellant). For civil appeals: the original & 2 copies will be sent to the appellant, who is responsible for providing the original to the Appellant Court, one copy for the respondent and one copy for the appellant.

▪If you are a party to a criminal appeal and you require a court transcript so that your appeal can proceed, please contact the Court location of where your appeal is set to be heard to determine whether you need to order copies of the transcript or to pay for it to be transcribed.

▪If you do not require a transcript of the court matter but would like to have a copy of the audio from a proceeding, you must apply to the Court to determine if you can have a copy of the audio. Your application must be made at the court location where the matter was heard.

NOTE:

It is the requesters responsibility to ensure the information provided on the order form is complete and accurate.

* If the order form is incomplete, it will not be accepted and will be sent back to you to be completed fully.
* Please review your order form carefully and follow the instructions of where to submit your order form for processing.
